

Let Your Easter Suit Come From The Bazaar

And you can feel confident that it is correct in every detail, for only clothes of recognized merit have a place in our store. We are showing a splendid line of attractive spring models embracing all the newest and most wanted shades and weaves.

SCHLOSS BROS. BALTIMORE CLOTHES, which have no equal, are sold in El Paso only by The Bazaar. Come in and look them over. Try them on—you'll not be urged to buy.

Our entire price range is $15 to $40

New Spring Headwear

Every shape and shade in men's hats that's destined to be popular this spring will be found here. We are showing a wonderful variety of the latest models at prices that will suit every one.

OUTFITTERS FOR MEN AND BOYS

310-312 San Antonio Street.

SENATORS IN ARIZONA ARE ELECTED

Ashurst and Smith To Be Elected On Wednesday
By a Joint Ballot

COMMERCE COURT FIGHT COMES UP

Phoenix, Ariz., March 25.—At 2 o'clock today the legislature met and cast its vote for Smith and Ashurst for the United States senate. In the senate Ashurst was placed in nomination by H. H. Wood, of Yavapai county, and Smith by John T. Hughes, of Pima county. There were a large number of seconding speeches. In the lower house the afternoon was largely given over to laudatory speeches, but few bills being considered in either branch today.

Tomorrow the houses meet in joint session at noon, when the vote will be cast.

The new senators will then respond to an invitation to address the legislature.

Election Results.
All question as to precedence of Arizona's senators was dispelled last night at a meeting of the rules committee of both branches of the legislature. It was agreed that both Ashurst and Smith would be nominated in the senate and house at the same time, and that each member in voting, would vote for both candidates, instead of one.

This settlement of the precedence question throws the long and short term controversy in the United States senate, where the two men will draw lots.

The rules committee of the two houses, which have been at work the past week, will report tomorrow. A fight will be precipitated when a bill memorializing congress for the abolition of the commerce court comes up. Some of the most radical are declaring it goes too far, while the more conservative say this is just what was wanted and they propose putting the radicals on record.

Unsuccessful Day.
Both branches of the legislature held two sessions yesterday and rushed through a great amount of routine. A bill was offered by senator Hughes, of Tucson, taxing inheritance of $500 or more, 3 percent. The bill grades the tax up to 4 percent on inheritances of $50,000. In case the inheritance is not in direct lineal descent, the tax is to begin on estates of $500.

Hughes also introduced a bill taxing refrigerating and sleeping car companies 1 percent of the gross annual income.

The rules committee of neither house was able to report. So far 15 bills have been offered in the house and 20 in the senate, all of which are in the hands of committees.

Legislative Chestnuts.
The old fable about the wise monkey that induced a cat to pull the chestnuts out of the fire has just been reenacted in the political affairs of Arizona. Personally, senator Smith is most friendly to governor Sloan. Ashurst may or may not be. Anyhow, he is not going to say or do anything just at this time which will have any effect on his own well-earned popularity. So when the legislature asked the advice of the two senators, they gave a cordial, not to say an enthusiastic, assent to a legislative resolution of protest. This resolution will take a large measure of responsibility from the senatorial shoulders. In other words, it is right here that the legislative cat rescues the chestnuts from the glowing embers. And following this action the two Arizona senators can go to Washington, vote against confirmation, and have their action on instructions from the legislature that elected them.

The Democratic antipathy to governor Sloan is of several months' standing and is a long story. While the constitutional convention was in session the governor visited Washington and had a conference with President Taft, with whom he has long maintained a personal friendship. The governor gave out an interview, in which he said the president was opposed to the initiative, referendum, and recall features of the constitution and would disapprove the instrument if it came to him with these provisions in it. It is now a matter of history that the president did veto the first admission bill because of the judiciary recall feature, waiving his objections to the other sections. However, this fact has never lessened the Democratic antipathy to Mr. Sloan and the present attempt to prevent his confirmation is an outgrowth of that long standing animosity.

Whatever else may be said of this legislature, no one can deny that it is sufficiently busy to satisfy the most exacting. And this is true particularly of the senate, the committee of that body, securing the opportunity to rest on the Sabbath day, spent practically all of Sunday trying to whip into shape its rules of procedure. These rules are based on the rules obtaining in the national house of representatives and such modifications as the exigencies of the case may require.

Methods of Procedure.
The absence of any definite working program has been a serious drawback to the transaction of business. There has been much debate regarding the reading of bills and the requirements of the constitution with reference to this matter; and finally it was decided to put the various questions involved up to the attorney general. Mr. Ballard has rendered an opinion that emergency measures, designed to take effect immediately upon passage, need be read the first time only by title; but that all other measures must be read in full three times before passage. A rule has also been adopted to the effect that hereafter all resolutions and memorials must take the form of regular bills. So no measure, whatever its nature, may be read hereafter be passed without being first referred to its proper committee.

The Drivest Bill.
The Lovin bill, making a six months' residence in the state and four months in the county a condition precedent to the granting of divorce, seems to have been received with exceptional favor. "We might as well have these people here and get their money," expresses the general view of the measure. It is practically certain to pass. There is also talk of a bill reducing to six months the time required for citizenship qualifications.

A bill has been introduced in the senate to make the office of mine inspector elective for a term of six months. It is certain to provoke a warm debate. A pretty large element of the Democratic party in Arizona, the element that is in line for all the reforms that here and get their money" expresses itself in favor of the short ballot; and it is in conformity with some principles that they will oppose the Hughes amendment.

Campaign Publicity.
A late bill by Senator Hughes provides for the publicity of campaign expenses of candidates. His bill allows United States senators to spend $3,000; and the amounts are then graduated down for the other classes of officers to merely nominal sums for the lowest.

The senate has adopted the practice of meeting at 10 o'clock, but the house still sticks to 1:30 as the time for beginning its session. It is possible there may be a change this week.

To Size 'Em Up Soon.
Within the next few days some of the earlier bills will come up for third reading; and when the individual members get a chance at itemized amendments there will be a better chance to take the real measure of the legislature. It will also then be possible to determine, at least to some extent, just how far the lawmakers are willing to go in radicalism.

Constitutional Patchwork.
One of the features of the session to date has been the introduction of bills providing for constitutional amendments. If all these are submitted and if the practice of holding special elections prevails, there will be plenty of voting along next summer. However, because of the expense, it is likely most, if not all, of these measures, will be voted upon at the regular election next November. It is pointed out that an election in Arizona costs $25,000, and the state can ill afford to spend the money; also, if all the amendments proposed and contemplated should be adopted and ratified, sons's senators was dispelled last night at a meeting of the rules committee of both branches of the legislature. It was agreed that both Ashurst and Smith would be nominated in the senate and house at the same time, and that each member in voting, would vote for both candidates, instead of one.

This settlement of the precedence question throws the long and short term controversy in the United States senate, where the two men will draw lots.

The rules committee of the two houses, which have been at work the past week, will report tomorrow. A fight will be precipitated when a bill memorializing congress for the abolition of the commerce court comes up. Some of the most radical are declaring it goes too far, while the more conservative say this is just what was wanted and they propose putting the radicals on record.

Unsuccessful Day.
Both branches of the legislature held two sessions yesterday and rushed through a great amount of routine. A bill was offered by senator Hughes, of Tucson, taxing inheritance of $500 or more, 3 percent. The bill grades the tax up to 4 percent on inheritances of $50,000. In case the inheritance is not in direct lineal descent, the tax is to begin on estates of $500.

Hughes also introduced a bill taxing refrigerating and sleeping car companies 1 percent of the gross annual income.

The rules committee of neither house was able to report. So far 15 bills have been offered in the house and 20 in the senate, all of which are in the hands of committees.

Legislative Chestnuts.
The old fable about the wise monkey that induced a cat to pull the chestnuts out of the fire has just been reenacted in the political affairs of Arizona. Personally, senator Smith is most friendly to governor Sloan. Ashurst may or may not be. Anyhow, he is not going to say or do anything just at this time which will have any effect on his own well-earned popularity. So when the legislature asked the advice of the two senators, they gave a cordial, not to say an enthusiastic, assent to a legislative resolution of protest. This resolution will take a large measure of responsibility from the senatorial shoulders. In other words, it is right here that the legislative cat rescues the chestnuts from the glowing embers. And following this action the two Arizona senators can go to Washington, vote against confirmation, and have their action on instructions from the legislature that elected them.

The Democratic antipathy to governor Sloan is of several months' standing and is a long story. While the constitutional convention was in session the governor visited Washington and had a conference with President Taft, with whom he has long maintained a personal friendship. The governor gave out an interview, in which he said the president was opposed to the initiative, referendum, and recall features of the constitution and would disapprove the instrument if it came to him with these provisions in it. It is now a matter of history that the president did veto the first admission bill because of the judiciary recall feature, waiving his objections to the other sections. However, this fact has never lessened the Democratic antipathy to Mr. Sloan and the present attempt to prevent his confirmation is an outgrowth of that long standing animosity.

Whatever else may be said of this legislature, no one can deny that it is sufficiently busy to satisfy the most exacting. And this is true particularly of the senate, the committee of that body, securing the opportunity to rest on the Sabbath day, spent practically all of Sunday trying to whip into shape its rules of procedure. These rules are based on the rules obtaining in the national house of representatives and such modifications as the exigencies of the case may require.

Methods of Procedure.
The absence of any definite working program has been a serious drawback to the transaction of business. There has been much debate regarding the reading of bills and the requirements of the constitution with reference to this matter; and finally it was decided to put the various questions involved up to the attorney general. Mr. Ballard has rendered an opinion that emergency measures, designed to take effect immediately upon passage, need be read the first time only by title; but that all other measures must be read in full three times before passage. A rule has also been adopted to the effect that hereafter all resolutions and memorials must take the form of regular bills. So no measure, whatever its nature, may be read hereafter be passed without being first referred to its proper committee.

The Drivest Bill.
The Lovin bill, making a six months' residence in the state and four months in the county a condition precedent to the granting of divorce, seems to have been received with exceptional favor. "We might as well have these people here and get their money," expresses the general view of the measure. It is practically certain to pass. There is also talk of a bill reducing to six months the time required for citizenship qualifications.

A bill has been introduced in the senate to make the office of mine inspector elective for a term of six months. It is certain to provoke a warm debate. A pretty large element of the Democratic party in Arizona, the element that is in line for all the reforms that here and get their money" expresses itself in favor of the short ballot; and it is in conformity with some principles that they will oppose the Hughes amendment.

Campaign Publicity.
A late bill by Senator Hughes provides for the publicity of campaign expenses of candidates. His bill allows United States senators to spend $3,000; and the amounts are then graduated down for the other classes of officers to merely nominal sums for the lowest.

The senate has adopted the practice of meeting at 10 o'clock, but the house still sticks to 1:30 as the time for beginning its session. It is possible there may be a change this week.

To Size 'Em Up Soon.
Within the next few days some of the earlier bills will come up for third reading; and when the individual members get a chance at itemized amendments there will be a better chance to take the real measure of the legislature. It will also then be possible to determine, at least to some extent, just how far the lawmakers are willing to go in radicalism.

Constitutional Patchwork.
One of the features of the session to date has been the introduction of bills providing for constitutional amendments. If all these are submitted and if the practice of holding special elections prevails, there will be plenty of voting along next summer. However, because of the expense, it is likely most, if not all, of these measures, will be voted upon at the regular election next November. It is pointed out that an election in Arizona costs $25,000, and the state can ill afford to spend the money; also, if all the amendments proposed and contemplated should be adopted and ratified, friends of the Arizona constitution will hardly find it a year from this time. The Republicans are having a little good-natured fun with the Democrats over the large number of recommendations for constitutional amendments contained in the governor's message and in the several bills introduced in the legislature, since the governor was president of the constitutional convention, and the Democrats generally have always affirmed that the constitution is as nearly perfect as it could be made.

Anti-Lobbying Bill.
Pending the passage of the anti-lobbying bill, which has been introduced into the house following a recommendation for it by the governor, there is a disposition on the part of the lawmakers to take no chance with a possible corruption of their morals. To safeguard themselves in this matter and to prevent even a hint at lobbying or the possibility of any undue influence that might be brought to bear by any designing person, a joint resolution has been adopted forbidding any person, except members of the legislature, attaches, and state officials to appear upon the floor of the legislature, either during the sessions or recesses. It is not believed, however, that this rule will remain in effect throughout the session. The rules committee will report within a few days, when it is presumed the order will be amended, at least to the extent of accepting newspaper men.

ARRESTED ON A SMUGGLING CHARGE
Militaryman Phillips and John S. Talbot Held
By U. S. Officials
Wylie M. Phillips, a private in company K, and John S. Talbot were arrested by United States officers Monday night on a charge of violation of the neutrality law by shipping a quantity of ammunition to Mexico. The arrest of Phillips was made at the armory in the courthouse while the local company of militia was undergoing the annual inspection by an officer of the regular army. He was called from the ranks and placed under arrest by state ranger Charles Moore. Phillips was in uniform at the time. The arrest of Talbot took place a short time previous but both men are held on the same charge. It is claimed in the complaint, which was made by L. E. Ross, special agent of the de-

Crawford Theatre Tonight

Wednesday Matinee

Wednesday Night

Grand Dancing Contest

Between Teams From Prof. Ryan's Dancing
Academy and the Texas Tommy Dancers

$40.00 Gold First Prize

Regular Performance, Contest Extra. Boost for Your Favorite
Popular Prices—10c, 25c and 35c

Seats Tomorrow For "The Squaw Man"

Tomorrow, Wednesday, morning at the Crawford theatre office seats will go on sale for the performance Thursday night at the El Paso theatre of "The Squaw Man," and the following morning for the performance Friday night. Prices: Lower floor, $1.00 and $1.50; balcony, 75c and $1.00; gallery, 50 cents.

In "The Squaw Man," Edwin Milton Royle has written a drama in which there is much stirring incident, and has mingled the tragic and lighter shades of life in the right proportions. The play tells a story that is full of thrilling interest that often becomes intense. Its glimpse of English life in the upper circles is followed by a picture of ranch life in the West that is breezy and natural, and no where does it become "talky" or tame. Much of its incidents are new, and in theme and treatment it is far above many of the latter-day successes, so far as morality is concerned. The leading role of "The Squaw Man" is admirably suited to Mr. Dill, and there is every indication of the part being one of his greatest successes. Clarence Bennett and Company, the managers of the enterprise, have given Mr. Dill an exceptionally strong, supporting company.

Butter Fly Girls in Madame Sherry

The greatest of all musical hits in the last twenty years is the famous French Vaudeville, "Madame Sherry," which will delight local theatre-goers at the El Paso theatre March 30-31. It will be presented here by the New York company. The company includes Miss Marie Flynn, of whom the Montreal Gazette said: "She is an Elsie Janis unspiced by vaudeville, with a greater power of sustained impersonation and with something of Edna May's wistful innocence." Another prominent member of the cast is Oscar Figman, who is a great local favorite and is well known by his clever work in the "Merry Widow," and the wonderful chorus. In criticising "Madame Sherry" another well known paper said: "Madame Sherry" is one of the brightest, cleverest, wittiest, prettiest entertainments ever seen on any stage. It sparkles, has humor, melody, color, spirit and a song theme which for sheer lifting seductive fascination excels anything since the days of the "Blue Dummies." Compared with "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning All Its Own," the "Merry Widow" waits is a poor wisp of melody."

Seats for Saturday night will go on sale Friday morning at the Crawford theatre office, and Saturday morning the seats for Sunday matinee and night will go on sale. Prices: Lower floor, $2.00; Balcony, $1.00 and $1.50; Gallery, 50 cents; Matinee prices are 50 cents cheaper.

partment of justice, that the two men had made a shipment of 1000 rounds of rifle cartridges to Mexico on March 15.

The arrests of the two men were made by Capt. H. R. Hillebrand deputy United States marshal; state ranger Charles Moore and special agent L. E. Ross.

The two men are being held in the county jail and will be given a preliminary hearing before the United States commissioner Wednesday afternoon.

It is not known whether the cartridges which the two men are alleged to have shipped to Mexico are property of the militia but an investigation will be begun by Capt. Wallace Downing, of the local company, to see if the cartridges belonged to the local equipment.

PRIDE.
(From Judge).
As we wander along through this vale of tears,
It is plain among other things,
That no song is as sweet to a donkey's ears
As the song that the donkey sings.
A new old well was recently brought in near Wichita Falls, Texas.

Are You A SUFFRAGETTE?

SUPPOSE you are. Suppose you are a woman, and you believe in woman's rights, and you think you ought to have a vote and a share in running the government as well as a share in paying the expenses. And suppose some brute of a man says to you that you don't know enough about government to talk politics, much less to vote. And, still supposing, wouldn't you just dearly love to rise up and tell that male brute all about the government and how it works and what it does? Now wouldn't you?

There is just one way that you can prepare yourself to do just that without spending a great deal of both time and money and that is to get a copy of "The American Government" by Frederic J. Haskin. It will appeal to your womanly taste by its beauty as a book, it will satisfy your suffragette longings by telling you just what you have wanted to know about the government.

(Note to the Brutes: There is only one way to prepare for the suffragette that knows all about it. Buy the book yourself.)

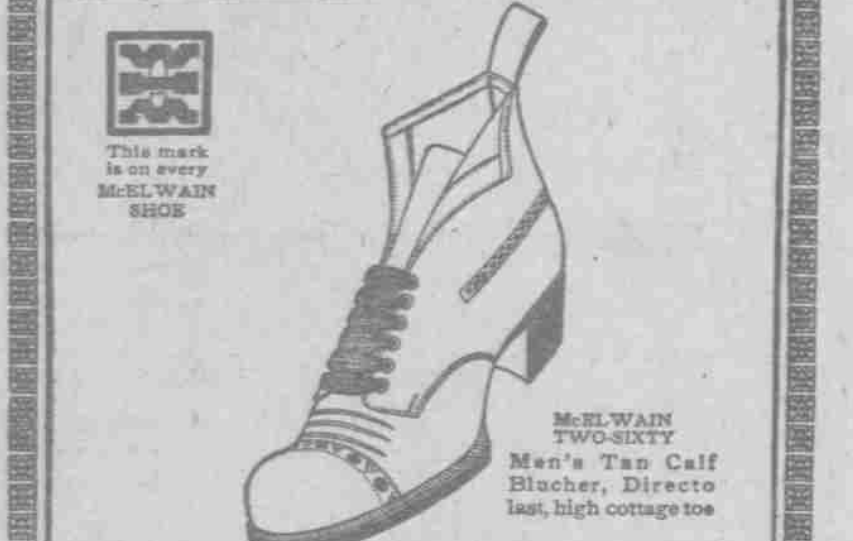

If you are neither a suffragette nor a male brute, you will want the book anyhow. See coupon elsewhere in this issue.

Liver Sluggish? Go To Your Doctor

"How are your bowels?" This is generally the first question the doctor asks. He knows what a sluggish liver means. He knows that headaches, bilious attacks, indigestion, impure blood, are often promptly relieved by a good liver pill. Ask him if he approves of Ayer's Pills. Then follow his advice.

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

McELWAIN TWO-SIXTY Men's Tan Calf Blucher, Directo last, high cottage toe

In every pair of shoes there is leather, lining, outer and inner soles, heels, eyelets, laces and thread. Each one of these articles comes in many grades. Only a factory buying its materials upon the largest scale could get such good qualities in these things, at such low prices, as do the McElwain factories, making ten million pairs of shoes a year. Therefore, every you buy, is the best value for the money.

McElwain Shoe

W. H. McElwain Company, Boston